THE DOUGH PROCESS

MIXING

We mix 00 Caputo Flour, Salt, Water & beer before adding primed yeast. The beer gives the pizza an extra crispy base and distinct leopard spots.

PROVING

Our dough is proved once at room temperature for an hour, before being portioned up and proved once more. This makes the crust extra fluffy.

STRETCHING

The dough is then shaped by hand and stretched to size. The pizza is then cooked at around 400 degrees.

SALADS

All our salads are made fresh to order and can be altered to suit your specific diet. Ask our staff if you'd like your dressing on the side.

THE BREWING PROCESS

MASHING

Hot Water and Malted Barley are mixed in the mash tun to release the malt sugars. The mixture is known as 'Wort'.

BOILING

The wort is boiled in the copper or kettle and hops are added at various stages to produce different flavours and aromas to suit the beer style.

FERMENTING

The mixture is transferred through a cooler to the fermenter where yeast is added. Yeast eats the sugars and produces alcohol & CO<sub>2</sub>. Later, hops can be added, this is called 'Dry Hopping'.
